

PRESS RELEASE AUGUST 2011

The Management Consultancy, ea Consulting Group which has become one of the leading providers of Change Management Consultants in the UK, has recently celebrated its first year of trading successfully in Australia. With Change Programmes underway in a number of clients in both Sydney and Melbourne, the company has plans to open an office in Perth next year.

With the recent appointment of John Littler as a Principal Consultant in Sydney, ea Consulting Group is well-placed to develop its Change Management business with the many major blue chip organisations which are based in the region.

John has worked globally in technology for 20 years in operational, programme / portfolio management and consulting roles, including being Head of Project Delivery for Westpac. His experience is primarily within Financial Services, IT outsourcing & Telecoms vendors. He has a proven track record in the successful delivery of complex IT programmes across multiple international locations and also in building high performing teams.”

John says, “With so much happening within Financial Services since the GFC, I felt it was the right time to join a company like ea Consulting Group which can help me develop my career to the next stage. I’m happy to be working with a great team of people who have a highly professional approach to delivering successful Change Projects and Programmes. ”

Steve Robson, Group Chairman and Interim CEO says, “It’s exciting to be able to create such a talented team here in Sydney and John is joining us at an opportune moment. We know we have a really innovative model for consulting in the Change Management arena in Australia and our clients are responding to this. Going forward, now that we’ve opened offices in Sydney and Melbourne, we intend to expand further with an office in Perth too. The scope of the business may also develop beyond Financial Services and Telecoms into other areas such as Mining and Construction. “
